Penndel Will Proceed With Sewer Survey

PENNDEL, July 3-Penndel bor ough council, at its July session last evening, approved plans for preliminary survey for a proposed sewerage authority for the boroughs of Penndel, Hulmeville, Langhorne and Langhorne Manor. The legal papers, read by Burgess Joseph Keating, give authority to the firm of Glace and Glace, engineers, to ascertain if the four boroughs are financially capable, and to establish a practical arrangement for setting up an authority.

In the event the quartet of political sub-divisions agrees to proceed with the survey, and if costs are between $3,000 and $5,000 (the tentative sum for survey), each borough would assume equal financial responsibility.

Alexander Knox presided at the session in the school house.

Representatives of 85 petitioners appeared at the meeting, the group opposing proposed change in the zoning code. The proposal is aimed at changing designation of a residential area in the vicinity of Penndel Village, along Route 1, to permit erection of a gasoline station. The petition had been previously presented to council. No decision having been made by the local zoning board, no definite information was forthcoming to the petitioners.

The delay in proclaiming independence proved how slowly the colonists came around to the this hour), sermon: "Congress and idea. In the interim, sentiment American Freedom!"; Miss Mayfor breaking with England had both Brown, soloist; Miss Bernice been augmented by a flood of pamphlets, sermons, speeches and Thursday: newspaper articles. Discussions of the Continental Congress, in which nearly half of the members were lawyers, were dispassionate and deliberate.

It was on June 7, 1776, that Richard Henry Lee, for the Virginia delegation, presented a series of three resolutions for independence. Congress held them in abeyance, but several days later appointed a committee to draft a statement. Jefferson was chosen chairman because of his reputation as a facile writer. The other members were John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Roger Sherman and Robert R. Livingston.

Jefferson composed the document. Some phrases he took verbatim from a rough draft that he had drawn up for a constitution for Virginia. He admitted afterwards that the ideas expressed were not original-they mere ly voiced sentiments which had become prevalent.

Jefferson accepted changes suggested by Franklin and Adams, then submitted his document to Congress on June 28. Before adopting it on July 4, Congress made additional changes. For a last paragraph it added the first of the Lee resolutions. That had been passed on July 2. Technically, therefore, the anniversary of American independence should be July 2 instead of July 4. It was not signed by members of Congress until the following August.

In Memoriam BEETLE - Austin. In loving memory of husband and father, who passed away husband and father, who passed on July 4th, 1952. Your end was sudden dear; You made us weep and cry. But oh, the saddest part of all,

You couldn't say goodbye.

The blow was hard, the shock severe:
We never thought your death so near.

3 Windsor 4-door sedan $2665 Power Steering, loaded accessories. Announcing the opening of our new waiting room which will be open to the public July 6, 1953. Air conditioned plus television while having your car serviced in our new service department. Factory trained mechanics to give you the best service in the United States.

You couldn't say goodbye.
The blow was hard, the shock severe:
We never thought your death so near.
And only those who lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
'Tis sad, but true, we wonder why—
The best are always first to die.

MATINEE SATURDAY AT 2 P. M. EVENING CONTINUOUS 6:30 TO 11:30 Matinee at 2 P. M., Sunday

Today's Quiet Moment By the Rev. Ralph E. Proud, Jr. Pastor Bristol Methodist Church

"Where the Spirit of the Lord is there is liberty!" 2 Cor. 3:17. This was the Apostle Pauls contribution to the concept of liberty. Certainly he was right. Russia without God has become a slave state. A man without God becomes a slave to his own worst self. A man with God whatever his state is free indeed. It was this same Paul who in the midst of a Rome, which was later to take his life. said that he had found that, "all things work together for good, to them that love God," or again it was he who could sing in prison and whose very jailers run into danger of being converted to the Christian cause

Liberty, like love, is a condition of the heart as well as of the environment. To be sure liberty has and is seen more in those countries, even in a political sense, where the Spirit of Christ is most evident.

We in modern America where so much care is being taken for our liberty both within and without the country must never forget that we have our liberty in the first place very largely because of men who in the first place believed in God and said so in the Declaration of Independance. Men who thought that no hardship was too great if each could worship according to the dictates of his own heart. It was this that moved the first New England settlers to this far shore and many after them. Liberty is the gift of God as well as the possession of men and it is to be had at its best, individually and collectively, only where the Spirit of the Lord is. If you can't read that in past history see it in modern history for Russia says wrongly, "We will live without God!" We might answer, among other things, "Try it and you live without liberty." America would do well also on this Independance week-end to remember this sportsmen, now that all our fish in Pennsylvania in season, the next season to open will be the hunting season. The Umipre Bill Weiss called the first is rail bird season on the first of September. This means the game summer is about over and the hunter will be looking over his guns and getting his dogs in shape. There will be a few changes in the game for Franklin, had the Wardhunting laws this year, but we will not get these changes until about ers hitless when the rains came.

Bass season came in on July 1st. I have not had any reports yet, but next week's "Sportsmen's Briefs" will give you the "low-down" on where they have taken the big ones, and what bait they got them

It looks like the only report I will get will be from the canal, because the canal is about the only body of water which has not been declared polluted around here. The canal has given up a let of sport in the last few years. I hope it does this year. If it doesn't you will have to travel out of the polluted area.

I have heard a lot of reports of how the state has controlled pollution in the state, but it doesn't look like they have done too much to control it in Bucks county. The Delaware River at New Hope has been condemned for swimming. Where are all the leaders in Bucks County? Can't they do something about this pollution? Or will they sit back and let our river get into a condition like it is in Philadelphia?

Our lakes and streams have been lost for swimming. The ones who are hurt the most are the children. Well, they can still go to the lake and fish a little and have a day's outing as long as they don't go in the water.

The salt water fishing is getting to be a problem. You talk to one party and they say they caught fish. Then you talk to another who has been out the same day, and they say there are no fish in the ocean How do you account for this? Is it the fault of the captains or is it that the fish are in small schools and one boat gets into them and

Well, I hear from "Vic" Rockhill they are catching a few flounders in the bay and a few kings in the surf. "Vic" goes down every week and he is one of the most earnest surf fishermen I know of.

My son, "Bill" and I were down to Longport and fished the jetty on Monday. Bill landed four nice flounders and I landed two. Here is one for the books. I landed my two on a home-made bait like the fly I use for trout and small-mouth bass. I had it in mind to try this for flounders and now I know it works.
